

Dodge & Cox Mourns the Loss of Charles Pohl

It is with profound sadness that Dodge & Cox shares news of the passing of Charles Pohl, former Chair and Chief Investment Officer, who retired in 2022. For more than three decades, Charles' visionary leadership and unwavering dedication to serving clients helped shape the direction and success of Dodge & Cox, making a lasting impact on both the organization and the broader financial community.

"Charles was an esteemed leader in our industry, leaving behind a legacy of dedication, wisdom, and kindness that deeply influenced our firm and the clients we serve," said Dana Emery, Chair and CEO of Dodge & Cox. "He was more than a brilliant financial mind; Charles was also a trusted mentor and cherished colleague to many. His warmth and genuine concern for others forged deep bonds within the organization, reflecting the type of environment he helped cultivate."

On behalf of our colleagues, we extend our deepest condolences to the Pohl family.

For more details on his life and contributions, please view Charles' obituary.
