At Dodge & Cox, our primary goal is to serve our clients' investment needs by delivering excellent long-term performance through our consistent investment philosophy and rigorous fundamental, bottom-up research process. We strive to match the skills of our investment professionals with the need for insightful research and collective wisdom in our decision making for each investment strategy.

To ensure the continuity of the firm's culture, investment philosophy, and process, Dodge & Cox evolves the membership of its Investment and Management Committees gradually over time and typically announces any changes in January. We also factor long-term succession planning into Committee membership, although there are currently no immediate plans for retirement.

This year, we are announcing an addition to our Investment Leadership team and changes to two of our Investment Committees.
